High School, Fair Haven, Vt. 529

DEDICATION

This yearbook is dedicated to Fair Haven High School which this year ends its 82 year life as an independent town school. Throughout the course of the school's history improvements and additions were made to the school structure itself, and to its curriculum, in order to meet the changing needs of the community.

The old high school building, located on North Park Place, Fair Haven, was originally built in 1861 with an addition built in 1893. Until 1916, when the graded school was built, both the elementary and the secondary school grades met in the same building. The average high school attendance at that time was 24. In 1907 the Vermont State Department of Education granted to F.H.H.S. a "first class" rating among the state's secondary schools.

Numerous changes occurred in the years between 1910 and 1940: Manual training was instituted in 1910 with a woman for an instructor. The domestic science program was not begun until 1918. During these years a course in religion, taught one period a week for all faiths, supplemented the curriculum. In the year which followed the school was accredited by the New England College Entrance Certificate Board (1911), electric lights were installed (1912), the Parent-Teachers' Association was organized (1913), and the first medical inspector was appointed (1915). Among the many extracurricular activities which flourished at this time were: musical, dramatic, forensic, home economics, and French clubs. In athletics track and tennis were offered as well as the traditional football, basketball, and baseball. In a state wide competition held in the late 1930's THE SLATE was judged to be the best medium-sized high school paper in Vermont.

The war years saw the introduction of new courses to meet the demand of civilian education under the classification of Civil Service and

THE OLD AND THE NEW

National Defense. Youths between seventeen and twenty-six years of age were taught auto mechanics, elementary applied electricity, and first aid. Students bought government savings stamps and bonds; and the school was organized for protection against air attacks. Drivers' training and typing were added to the curriculum in and the student council was organized for the first time. In 1946 the school's enrollment reached a peak of 142 pupils.

At the end of the war, meetings were held to discuss the possibility of a new high school. At a reunion of over 600 F.H.H.S. alumni in 1952 the question of a new school building came up repeatedly. From then on the necessity for a new building became more and more evident.

In June 1955, the citizens of Fair Haven approved the building of the new school, and construction began soon after.

After the school's completion in 1957 it was dedicated in the new auditorium with the state board of education and Lieutenant Governor Robert T. Stafford (presently U.S. Representative) attending the ceremonies.

The new Fair Haven High School served pupils in grades 9-12, and boasted fourteen classrooms, a gymnasium-auditorium, and a cafeteria. The building was designed for a capacity of 350 students which was surpassed in 1962 with an enrollment of 352. In June and November of 1962 the towns of Benson, Orwell, Fair Haven, and West Haven voted to organize a union school district, thereby opening the way for future expansion.

As of July 1, 1963 Fair Haven High School will cease to exist and will become Fair Haven Union High School.

CLASS HISTORY

We began our Freshman year at Fair Haven High School in September 1959. Members of the faculty who began their first year with us were: Miss Brown, Mrs. Parker, and Mr. Sankowski. At our first class meeting we elected Jim Blackbird as president, Judy Alexander as vice president and Jean Bowen as secretary-treasurer. Student Council representatives chosen were Bob Bethel, Jean Mercier, and Judy Allen. A short time later we were initiated by the class of 1962 in the last initiation to be held at Fair Haven.

At the start of our Sophomore year, our original class was considerably smaller. However several new students came to us from Owell. The faculty was increased by five: Mrs. Bell, Mr. Clark, Mr. Jones, Mrs. LaPlaca, and Mrs. Sheldon. At our first class meeting we elected Burt Beebe as president, Carole Munger as vice president, and Jeanne Gevry as secretary-treasurer. Student Council representatives were Pete Partch, Brenda LaDuke, and Rob Worthen. In February we held our Sophomore Hop, "Carnival Time," with music by Dick Reynold's orchestra. Our class rings were ordered toward the end of the year and received in the fall of our Junior year.

At the beginning of our Junior year Mr. Noble became our new principal. New faculty members that year were Miss Pell, Miss Coburn, Mrs. Beebe, Mrs. Jowdry, and Miss Hennig. At our first class meeting we elected John Smith as president, Pete Partch as vice president, and Jeanne Gevry as secretary-treasurer. That year's Student Council members were Janet Schabel, John Tobin, and Burt Beebe. Later on in the year our class became the first to enter a one act play in the contest at Middlebury. The play "Nobody Sleeps" was directed by Mrs. Jowdry. The next big event was our Junior Prom, "Shangri-La." John Smith and Janet Schabel were crowned king and queen. Six girls and four boys were chosen to participate in the annual Junior Prize Speaking event held each spring. The four members of our class initiated into the National Honor Society in 1962 were: Judy Allen, Carole Munger, Peggy Munger, and John Tobin.

At the beginning of our "Big Year" this fall, we greeted seven new teachers: Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Bozen, Miss Blake, Mr. Hebert, and Mr. Perkins. Elected at a class meeting were John Smith as president, John Tobin as vice president, and Jeanne Gevry as secretary-treasurer. Student Council members chosen were Janet Schabel, Burt Beebe, and Pete Partch. Our Senior Ball, with music by The 4 Sharps was held on December 14. John Tobin and Mary Elaine Mahar were chosen king and queen. Janet Schabel was voted D.A.R. girl; Judy Allen received a National Merit Scholarship Award; Terri Fusco was chosen Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Senior honors were announced in February. We presented our senior play "Are Teachers Human" directed by Mrs. Jowdry, in March. A busy Senior Week included Baccalaureate, Senior Banquet, Junior-Senior Reception and our four years at Fair Haven High School were terminated by Graduation on June 14, 1963.

GIRLS' STATE AND BOYS' STATE

Girls' or Boys' State is a model government where the youth delegates participate in the functioning of our Vermont Government on the town, county, and state levels. Girls' State is held at Vermont College in Montpelier and Boys' State at Norwich University in Northfield for a week's program of fundamental government.

To be chosen as a delegate to Girls' or Boys' State is a great honor for any junior in high school. The students are selected by the faculty to represent their school in this program of education for citizenship. The faculty selects the students with the following qualities in mind in the order of their importance: leadership, character, interest in politics and government, scholarship, co-operativeness, and physical fitness.

The purpose of this program is to educate young people in the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities of an American citizen. It is hoped that in this wonderful week the juniors will understand and take part in the democratic government so in the future they can put this knowledge to use. It is a privilege and should be used fully, for only a few can be chosen.
